

How aloe vera plant helps to boost growth performance in broiler birds

Aloe vera benefits

Aloe vera cures poultry viral diseases, boosts immunity as well as cures bacterial diseases. It also increases intestinal microflora to improve the digestion of feeds so as to facilitate nutrient absorption. Additionally, aloe vera also increases the broiler's body weight by increasing feed and water intake. Lastly, the plant also increases the feed conversion ratio as well as increasing the size of chicken internal organs.

Preparation steps

First, obtain good quality aloe vera plants and wash them well with clean water. Thereafter gently cut in between the plant leaves and collect the gel in a clean container. Lastly, add 10 millimeters of the aloe vera gel for every liter of chicken drinking water.
