

How to choose a feedstock for pellet making?

Choosing feedstock

Because pellet producing materials include forest feedings, perennial grasses, wood crops and crop residues, removing bark from wood before pellet making lowers ash content while for short rotation woody crops, 'there is need to grow trees that can be planted in tiny space rows. Finally, pellets from crop residues have high ash content.