

How to make WEED KILLER / HERBICIDE at home | How to Kill weeds Naturally | Organic Herbicide

Pulling weeds one by one is usually the task gardeners hate most. There are various natural ways of getting rid of pesky plants and weeds.

The common weed killers usually contain harmful chemicals that travel through the soil to other plants. These chemicals can also stay in the soil for as long as a year. These synthetic chemicals are also dangerous to use around pets and kids. There are easy ways to kill weeds naturally that can be made at home. These natural made solutions can help get rid of weed naturally and are used in areas that you do not want vegetation to grow like stony paths.

Ways to kill weeds

The first way involves combining two parts of distilled vinegar and one part of water in a spray bottle and adding few drops of dish soap. Solution is sprayed on weeds in the morning of a dry hot day.

The second method involves mixing three table spoons of salt with warm water to liquefy it. The salt solution kills weeds by causing dehydration but it also makes soil better.
