Land Preparation – Contour line construction

Good Farming Practices

Contouring is very important because it helps conserve water in the soil and at the same time improves the soil structure since the soil is not washed away by the heavy rains.

Buying good quality seeds at the right time will help farmers to get high yields.