Making a natural pesticide for all Plants using neem and garlic

Neem and garlic are naturally occurring ingredients in homesteads but these can be used to make effective organic pesticide. To make pesticide from neem leaves and garlic, you need to first peel the garlic and wash the neem leaves with water.

Making organic fertilizer

After peeling the garlic and washing the neem leaves, put the them in a blender or pound them in a motor and pestle to make a paste.
After making a paste, pour the paste in a container and sieve the solution into another container.
Pour the sieved mixture into a spray bottle and add some water. After this, the mixture is ready for use but it is advisable that the spraying is done in the morning or evening when the temperatures are low.
