

Using beetroot juice to boost chicken growth and weight gain

Beetroot benefits

Beetroot increases the body weight of chickens thereby attracting higher market prices. Additionally, it also increases food palatability as well as improves feed conversion ratio for faster growth and weight gain especially in broilers. Lastly, beetroot also increases the production of both white and red blood cells in chickens thus improving chicken body health.

Preparation steps

Start by obtaining high-quality beetroots, wash them very well, peel, and chop them into slices. Thereafter grind the sliced beetroots to extract the beetroot juice. Thereafter sieve the extracted juice, and put it in a clean container. After the preparation process add 30 millimeters of beetroot juice to every 1 liter of chicken drinking water and serve to birds.
